Where have they been for the last two years? The poll b cas fur nish damning proof of guilt, and point out the criminal party.

There is another fact, still more significant, is possible. The crimes committed here are no denied; the record is written in blood and rain The deeds were done in day ight, at least a great part of their. We had a large regular police force, and besides a large number of supernumeraries. These men must have been spectators of these scenes. They arrested scores who were beaten and mangled by mob violence, the victims of those crimes. These were discharged by the court, not having committed any offices, oven by the testi nony of those who arrested them. But mark it, not one of the guilty was arrested on the bloody day, and not a man punished then nor since. The hundreds of police could not see a cuity man during the day, and have not found one since. Everyb dy knows to what party all these officers belong; and does the organ ex, ee to make the world beli vo that such crimes could be committed, and hundreds of officers hired and paid, could not see one guilty man; or that these tried faithfully to do it? Will n t all men of sease ask two questions why did not one party vota if they could, when voting was the higaest object of both parties, and but one answer can be given, that a man of sense would not treat with contempt; noue other has been given that does not, by its silij character, betray the guilt it was intended to conceal. And since these awful crimes are not denicd, but confused, how happens it that the party in power, with their hundreds of police, saw mono of them, and arrosted no man to murders and house-burnings in Louisville?

Now, it is possible to garble and distort facts and mys'i y de ails; but there are standing ouabove the fog, starting monuments of guilt, that point to the guilty parties, with unmistakable pro cision. They give a claracter to the record that all understand; and that no impartial observer out of Louisvino has mi taken.

There is another fact which we invite all to notice. Tais city is under Know-Nathing rule. Every official belongs to that party; and are untabio. The Legislature has invested the test the right of suffrage, the rights of person and property. Have they performed their duty? Let the dis race it flored on Louisville by diabolical or mas answer. The answer has been given and heard. The public verdict is, that these authorities are imbecile, and therefore unfit for their trust; or they are corrept, and connive at

We aver, and all know that it is true, the authorities of this city, and the party that they belong to, have full power to secure peaceable and quiet elections in this city, if they have the will They can bring out the full vote of Lonisville, and show to Kentucky that her voters have all spoken and that the city is again under the laws and conetitution of Kantucky, and not under a reign of terror and violence. We affirm that there is not a Democrat in Louisville that will not heartily cooperate with their opponents who have the legal power, in any movement adopted to this end. We have proposed concert for the sake of peace, for the security of law and order; it has been treated with neglect. It is a fact, that fraud and violence in this city at the approaching election are apprehended all over this Commonwealth, creased over that of 1855. Johnson will give all The pariy that has all the legal power here is her vote, but about twenty, to Buchanan and known, and it will be again judged by its fruits. We now challenge that party to propose any plan to avert frands, and keep the peace; and we are authorized to say, that every Democrat will give enid about frauds and meditated rascalities; now this city furnishes more opportunities than any place in the State for fraudulent voting; and the agreement of both parties here, putting the right to challenge into the hands of responsible men of both parties, and allowing no other outside interference, will detect every fraudulent vote, and prevent either frand or violence. There can be no question that the Cherry Pecteral has, by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influence, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Peetoral, and will eure more complaints.

HAS. EOBYN......D. H. MAP OTHER...... HANRY MART.

My DEAR StB: Your letter of the 29th nit. was received day before yestenday. I had not time to answer you ten, nor have I now thatime to answer as fully as I would desire. But our Circult Court will begin on the 7th instant, and i must content myself with such a hasty reply as I can write to-night.

You appear to be a little nettled at what you call "an ill-advised criticism of your language, and you image that my "powers of criticism have been somewhat persected by an undue admit ration of the example in Gen. Casa's Nichelso letter, in which he attempted to found a great constitutional argument on a mero grammatical technicality, which any respectable county cour: lawyer ought to be ashamed of."

This is indeed strange language to be used by one who supported Gon. Cass for the Presidency, efter he had perpetrated that monstrous absurdrail! In regard to that letter, permit me to say that I have not seen it since 1848; that I do not remumber what reasons he urged to support of the d ctrl: e or non-intervention, and that I d monther any thing about the letter, except ing the pressure Gen. Cass took as to the power of Congress to exercise legislative jurisdiction over the Permieries. My opinion is based upon what regard as the obvious menting of the language of the Constitution. I have studied it with great care, for the sile purpose of ascertaining its true meaning

After devoting part of a page to a criticism of Gen Clear's letter, you say:

"I then answer your question as I have answered it be set. I find the express great of power to Congress to make laws for the Territories in that clau out the Constitution which confers the power to make needful rules," &c.

Libelly not set in traval over the ground occu-

Isball not again travel over the ground occu-din my former letter; but in refusing to do so, one be understood as not yielding my position, which I must sincerely believe is correct

"To dispose of and make all needful rules and la i as respecting the territory or other prop-helonging to the United States." To do To displace of the territory or other proper What e sel To make all need ul mies and re n'alions respecting too territory or other," and contend that it does not meen what it is ordi-narily intended to express. You refer to the New Testament, and think you have cornered Paul if this word is always to be taken in its usual ac-capitation. Very well, you not Paul for that; I do not mulerstand the language in which the Scriptures were originally written, and therefore do not know whether or not too; are correctly translated. But I cannot consent to perver! the obvious meaning of a word in the Logius language, naro by men who well understood that language, meraly for the sake of getting Paul out of a sumpo, or of curing a blunder in the translation of his writings, if any has been made. The framers of the Constitution knew the meaning of the words they emply yed, and if they had introd-co to make a different law, they would have used different lampange — such lampange as would have expr. s . a a d ff rent intention. S a learner concede all you ask, what would now argument prove? I again answer, that it would lead to the establishment of any inin an the territories which Congress miga deem neces ry 'o p me to the wellare of the perior. Under the rule, Congress o util create forty thou and banks in the territories; could mild up vast manufactories; could declare that roperty which is not, and direct limit what i now e and of an property, shall be deemed such no onger; e ald declare socal habits a curse to the rd fighi, their existence in the ter es : and trief, could direct and shape the the amit to minto the Union as States, exthis vicese for them. All these and many other tion of that clause in the Constit You call it "an express great of power." An exdo all acts of 'czislative sovereignly whi mir hangen to suggest themseives to Constess as red needfu, for the people! Why, cir, le f the Territories, gove ting them at it-iam: 2 .t may deem needful rules and regulations reade ing them. What a monstrone absurdity! To condition the C . ' in ion so as to give the representatives of this year States, representing twenty-five mil-to of people, absolute severeignly over a little bard of ectilers in the territories, who have no ow r'o resis' any laws, however calous or an just they may be, laws effected, too, by men who are not the representatives of the governed; who know nothing of their wishes and interests, but the are giverned alone by their fancies and whims, in playing the tyrant over the people of the allerther's. It dectrays at once the idea of a zepresents ivegovernment. No, ser, Umgress bas no inch power, and it ought not to have it. It no inc.'s power, and it ought not to have it. It was mirely withheld from that boly by the great blagna Charta of American Liberty. The makers of the Genetication intended to limit the powers of Congress as much as they possibly e nid, without making the mechantry of the Federal Givernment in parative and void of action, and to the possible argent in the possible. give the large t possible discretion to the people. Me a pecually to leave them untransceled in making their donestic laws, no matter under what chorac er of municipal arganization they might exist, whether State or Territorial.

might exist, whether State or Territorial.

For what purpose did Congress ask cessions of territory from particular States? Certainly not to gain the privilege of imperial demain over the inner each exist of the territory! No I the object was trenable C rgress to discharge the pulitie debt, and to provide a fund to defray or assist in dothe experses of the general government.

The ries of placing the inhabitants of the ter-dtery under the sovereign control of a legislative holy, not the representatives of nor amenable to se inhabitants, was never contemplated either by the denote or done. This matter was wisely considered and well understood by the framers of the Consideration, fiones the use of such language.

down t convey the double meaning of both soil the contrary, he has seen no cause to renounce

If a N your "commentators on law" extent in the first that the word territory conveys the double heart. "soil and sovereignty," what becomes of your reason for the recently of the 17th clause? It would be ridical u to attempt to can authority by constitutional prevision, which an authority by constitutional provision, which was clearly ousted by the "terms of occion" Acor ling to your "commentators on law," the certain to your "commentators on law," the certain test correst the right of soil and sover 'pa'r. Then way insert a clause in the Constitution to confer federal jurisdiction, and ons. Struction to confer federal jurisdiction, and ons.
State jurisdiction, when, according to your own arctions, the ession itself would do both?

All the constitute of the fact of the fact

All the cessions of territ ry to the United States (with the exception of the grants made by France, Spain, and Maxico) have been made by particular Stares. The District of Columbia was ceded by Maryland and Virginia, Alabama by Georgia, and other territories by other States. Be-fore these cessions were made the respective Ter-ritories was each under the State jurisdiction of the particular State to which it belonged, and in each case a State jurisdiction was to be ousted and a rederal authority to be nonferred. The fr. Nata of the Constantion, desiring to give Congree's the power to control the Territory as property, inserted a clume to that effect, to-wit: the 21 Cianae, Section 3, Article 4, which applies alike to all territory or other property belonging to the Un. ten States. They likewise desire to confer additional power over the particular portions of the territory. Hence the 17th Clause, Section 8, Article 1. If the object of the 17th clause were to provent a confict between State and federal anthority, why was not the same proclause were to prove at a connect testween distriand federal anthority, why was not the same prorision made as to all territory coded by particular States? Was there danger of conflict between the United States and Maryland and Virginia, and no danger of such conflict between the former and they have torn up that platform and made a new Georgie? If the right to make all need-ful rules, &c., confers the right of municipal legisfulrules, &c., confers the right of municipal legisfaction as well as the right to control the territory as property, what further grant of power could the most fruitful imagination conceive to be necessary? The danger of condict between the Federal and State anthorities won't do for an arswer; because I have shown by your own argument that the coesion itself passes both soil and sovereignty from the doner to the donee, and therefore such danger could never exist. I) o not understand me

From your letters, the following singular and contradictory propositions may be fairly considered as asserted by you:

Had the makers of the Constitution never at tempted to define the power of Congress over the territories, then it might have been a question of doubt as to how much power Congress derives from seneral ricciples, from the terms of two grants, &c. But they did so undertake, and in deficing it they limited the power to their control as prop erry, interpting in the instances onumerated. In these instances, they admed the power of exclu-sive legislation to the general power to dispose of the soil. I want no better foundation on which to base my opinion. It is not the result of an in-vessigation made for the purpose of sustaining a previously formed opinion, but forces itself n my mind from a careful reading of the Con
